He thanked the County's Roads Department for their work during recent storms. He spoke about a snowplow driver he met who was retiring at the end of the season. The driver pointed out snowplow drivers did not have right of way protections on roads like Emergency Medical Service vehicles did. He felt a discussion was needed on the topic, which had a statewide impact.

Commissioner Jung stated she attended a women's luncheon at the Washoe County Golf Course and stated the golf course was outperforming the standards set out in their contract. She invited the Board to visit the golf course. She mentioned she represented the Board at the Nevada Prayer Breakfast hosted by the Nevada Interfaith Association. She said Sierra View Library owner Rob Rothe donated over $1 million to the County for the building that housed the library. She indicated Buy Nevada First Gift Shop owner Dave Asher suggested a Resolution of thanks for a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new space at the old Burlington Coat Factory. He listed some of the Boards that gave support. He felt it was an award the Board of County Commissioners (BCC) should share.

Chair Berkbigler praised Commissioner Hartung for bringing water issues to the BCC's attention. Commissioner Jung asked for the details of the luncheon so she could attend. He mentioned Mr. Chávez's nephew Ramon was politicking in Chicago and thanked the Board for the Proclamation.

Mr. Barbano announced local artist Eric Holland would present an original painting at the celebration and march participant Maria Zamora would induct Tony Mayorga to the César Chávez Nevada Labor Hall of Fame. Commissioner Jung mentioned she was buying a table at the celebration and invited anyone who wished to join her.

18-0206 6A2 Proclaim April 2018 as National Donate Life Month.

Commissioner Hartung stated the subject affected him directly and stated there was nothing more important than signing up for organ donation. He added it saved numerous lives. He read and presented the Proclamation to Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Laura Knight.

Dr. Knight thanked the Board for highlighting the important issue. She indicated Washoe County and the Medical Examiner's (ME) office would be the first county and ME office nationwide to participate in the Let Life Bloom promotion. 18-0207 6A3 Proclaim the week of March 19, 2018 through March 23, 2018 as Nevada Moves Week.

Commissioner Jung read the Proclamation and remarked the County would get the Proclamation to the recipient.

Commissioner Jung expressed frustration at parents idling in their cars when picking up their children at school. She pointed out the community had a childhood obesity problem and the Board of Health was often close to not attaining Environmental Protection Agency standards. She clarified that happened most in the Washoe Valley basin area. She encouraged walking children to school and supported not supplying buses for children over a certain age based on proximity. She mentioned there was data that indicated walking to school led to fewer behavioral issues in the classroom. She wondered whether Commissioners could volunteer to walk students to the County's sister school. She repeated the Board would get the Proclamation to its recipient.

County Manager John Slaughter noted Officer Rojer Markesen of the Washoe County School Police had to leave the meeting.

Commissioner Jung read and presented the Proclamation to Director of the Human Services Agency (HSA) Amber Howell.

Ms. Howell thanked the Board and said the topic was one of the most difficult things she was responsible for. She indicated the foster care caseload doubled from 500 in 2011 to 1000 in 2015. Since then, due to grants and initiatives, the HSA reduced the number of children removed from their homes by 200; in fact on March 19 the number dropped below 900. She noted that trend differed from the national trend. She expressed pride at serving as the Director of the HSA and said they were making a difference for children.

Nicole Hicks, Director of the Child Advocacy Center (CAC), recognized the following agencies for partnering with the CAC in the multi-disciplinary approach to child abuse cases: the District Attorney's Office, the Reno Police Department, the Washoe County Sheriff's Office, the Washoe County School District, the Sparks Police Department, Crisis Call Center, and the HSA. She said they all did so much for victims of child abuse in the community.

Mr. Scott thanked the Commissioners for their support and the funds that were used to renovate the libraries, as well as to provide summer reading programs and Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Mathematics programming.

18-0210 6A6 Proclaim April 8, 2018 through April 14, 2018 as National Public Safety Telecommunications Week.

Commissioner Lucey stressed Safety Telecommunications Week was important and praised the people acting as the first line of defense for the citizens. He indicated they ensured radios were working, innovations were utilized, and they worked 24 hours a day, seven days a week to make sure the community was safe. He said they often went without gratitude and he said was honored to recognize those individuals.

Commissioner Lucey read and presented the Proclamation to Communications Supervisor Jenn Felter and Sheriff Chuck Allen.

Ms. Felter thanked the Board for the Proclamation. Sheriff Chuck Allen echoed his gratitude and stated dispatchers were the first ones to speak to citizens in distress. He said it was their job to keep citizens calm and keep those in the Sheriff's Office informed and in control. He stated he took great pride in what dispatchers did every day and added law enforcement professionals could not perform their duties without the dispatchers' collaboration. He thanked the Board for the Proclamation.

Truckee Meadows Fire Protection District Chief Charles Moore commented dispatchers did a great job by painting a picture of what firefighters should expect. He said that was invaluable in determining which resources to send as well as what the situation was. He praised dispatchers for staying calm while managing hundreds of calls. He encouraged the Commissioners to visit the dispatch center.
