Moving Seven Magic Mountains is required to make way for a major Harry Reid International Airport expansion. Comprised of seven towers of colorful, stacked boulders carved from Nevada limestone and standing more than thirty feet high, Seven Magic Mountains is "an expression of human presence in the landscape." Seven Magic Mountains was produced by the Nevada Museum of Art and Art Production Fund at a cost of $3.5 million and opened on May 11, 2016. Due to its popularity and the significant international attention Seven Magic Mountains continues to garner; the artist has expressed a desire to explore opportunities to keep the artwork in the state of Nevada. Currently, Seven Magic Mountains receives more than 1,000 visitors daily and has become a colorful visual icon for Nevada. However, the sculpture must find a new home. This presents a unique opportunity for the Nevada Museum of Art to partner with Washoe County to: 1) Identify a new home for the installation within Washoe County, 2) Financially support the deinstallation, transportation, and installation of the sculpture in Washoe County prior to December 2026, and 3) Along with other governmental entities increase cultural tourism in the region.

Courage Worldwide
	Courage House	$250,000	Approval Recommended
Description:	Courage Worldwide has been meeting the unique needs of minor victims of sex trafficking since 2010 in their trauma and survivor informed residential therapeutic safe houses called Courage House. Courage House is not just a structure or a building, a program or approach; it is a place where hope is given, healing is offered and lives are restored. This program offers a comprehensive, culturally relevant, holistic approach, encompassing each resident's own unique physical, mental, emotional and spiritual needs. Each campus is a safe house - a community where survivors can learn how to have and participate in health relationships - which are critical to their healing and future. Due to the severe lack of safe houses and resources for this vulnerable population in Nevada, this funding will support Courage Worldwide to bring a Courage House to Northern Nevada offering our most vulnerable children a safe place to heal. A property for the home has been identified for this facility. The plan is for this facility to open early to mid 2025. This award will support the purchase of a property in Washoe County where services will be provided.

Category	3.1: Public Sector Workforce: Payroll and Benefits for Public Health, Public Safety, or Human Services Workers

Northern Nevada Rave Family Foundation
	Family Respite Care of Nevada	$50,000	Approval Recommended

In FY24, Family Respite Care served 83 foster children and 19 post-adoption children. For FY25, they aim to serve a minimum of 102 children in these categories. The data collection shows a significant increase in demand for our services over the years and the requested $50,000 will be used to cover the enrollment costs and 30% of the service costs for these children, ensuring that services can continue without imposing fees on families, which would otherwise pose a significant barrier to many.
